PRESS RELEASE

November 14, 2016

Mayor Tyler names finalists for Police Chief

Seven candidates have been named as finalists for Police Chief of the Shreveport Police Department.

There were 19 candidates who applied for the position. All met the requirements of the Municipal Fire and Police Civil Service Board to qualify for Police Chief. Mayor Ollie Tyler conducted an initial screening with all 19 applicants. From those screenings she identified the finalists for the position. Each finalist will have a thorough interview.

Mayor Tyler narrowed the list to include Alan Crump, Janice Dailey, Rodney Horton, Greg Jones, Darwin Jones, Benjamin Raymond, and Wayne Smith.

“We are moving forward with due diligence in the selection of the City of Shreveport’s next police chief” said Mayor Tyler. “I have narrowed the original group of highly qualified and skilled applicants down to those finalists I believe possess the greatest ability to move the organization forward in a positive direction to ensure its future success.”

Mayor Tyler will interview finalists this week to assess who will be best for this key leadership position. A decision is expected by the end of November.

More on the finalists including their years of experience in law enforcement:
